The State Fair.

Says the Griffin News: From what we could see and hear while in Atlanta a few days ago, we are satisfied that the coming State Fair will be a big occasion. Atlanta is alive to the importance of the enterprise, and has a progressive man at the head of affairs in the person of Mayor Spencer. He is devoting his time, talents and best energies to the success of the State Fair, and has a corps of assistants who are doing their utmost to make it all that could be desired.

Let the people of Georgia give our Atlanta friends all the support in their power, and the State Fair will redound to the glory of Georgia.

STATE SUPREME COURT

ION. HIRAM WARNER, CHIEF JUSTICE HONS. H. K. MCCAY AND R. P. TRIPPE ASSOCIATE JUDGES

Trippe, J., having been of counsel, did not preside in the following case: Executors of Edmund Jackson vs. James WARNER, C. J.

The only question made in this case before this Court was as to the power and authority of the executors of Edmund decision to make sale of his lands Hawley, will have to pay as high as $30, to 000 a year. The whole project was conceived by what the New York Journal of Commerce calls "a Senate of newspaper" plantation of the deceased, remote from Commerce calls "a Senate of newspaper haters." If Sherman and his associates could have had their way the tax imposed on newspaper publishers would have been four, instead of two cents, a pound. These senatorial newspaper haters did not seek to change the law by a fair and square bill that could be discussed and sifted and amended, but they engrafted on the Post-office appropriation bill, at the last hour, such legislation, in the words of Mr. Tyner, of the House Conference Committee on the bill, "as ought never to be forced through the two Houses of Congress on an appropriation bill, or in any other way, except on the most thorough examination and the fullest collection of the Court-house, and was silegal as against the rights and interest of the complant of the court in the sale set aside. A motion was made to dismiss the bill for want of equity, which was overruled, and the defendants excepted. The 7th it item of the testator's will contains the following words: "I desire all my lands to be sold, together with the household and kitchen furniture not disposed of in this will, and such other property as I may disseized and possessed of, upon such terms as to notice or credit as my executors may, in their sound discretion, deem best." When the will does not otherwise direct the general law applicable to executors and administrators' sales must be complied with. If, how seems thorough examination and the fullest the power and ell the power and ell vented any discussion or examination. The manner of pasting the new amendaments is indefensible; but the men who hate the newspapers because they record their rescalities, their lies and grabs and intrigues and dedges, are not apt to be very particular about the form and method of punishment.

The postage on The Daily Constitutions of the property to be sold, not at private sale, but on such terms as to notice or credit, as his executors in their sound discretion might deem test. The executions of the property to be sold, not at private sale, but on such terms as to notice or credit, as his executors in their sound discretion might deem test. discretion might deem pest. The execu-tors had the power to sell the land and tors had the power to sell the land and other property under the will, without an order from the Ordinary, either for cash or credit, and upon such notice as they, in their sound discretion, might deem best, but in all other respects, they were bound to comply with the law regulating the sale of their testator's property. When the intention of the testator is doubtful as to the mode of sale, the safe rule is to adhere to the law. To take the case out of the gameral rule of the law as to executors. the general rule of the law as to executors sales, the intention of the testator should be plainly and distinctly expressed in the tense in this case that the executors were authorized to sell the testator's property under his will at private sale. All that can under his will at private sale. All that can be claimed under the power contained in the will is, that in making a public sale of the property as required by law, they had a discretion as to the notice to be given shoreof, and as to whether the property should be sold for eash, or on credit, and what credit, if any. We express no opinion in regard to the statute of limitations but leave that as an open question to be heard and decided on the final trial of the course as well as the other questions. of the cause, as well as the other questions made in the record. There was no error in amending the defendants motion dismiss the complainants bill.

In my judgment it had that right, or privilege, for the reasons expressed in my dissenting opinion in the case of Adems, vs Davis, et al, 47th Geo. Rep. 343. There is nothing in the case of Harrison, vs Walker (1st Kelly, 32) in condict with the views taken by me of this question in Adams vs Davis. In that case, the Court held that the Act of 4767 was expressly revived and declared to be the law of the land by the Act of December 1806, which expressly repealed the Act of June land by the Act of December 1806, which expressly repealed the Act of June 1806 which gave to plaintiffs the right to repeat the satisfication with the restriction of the satisfication of the satisf 1806 which gave to passantins the right to renew their suits within six months, and that being so, there was no law of force in the State which would authorize the plaintiff to renew his sait within six months, and to have held otherwise, would months, and to have need otherwise, would have been an outrage, to the expressed will and fittention of the Latin state, as clearly manifested by the Act of 1406. Augustus J. Mercier vs. Georgia A. Mercier. Equity, from Early. TRIPPE, J.

Georgia A. Mercier filed her bill again her brother, A. J. Mercier, charging it substance, that in 1868 her father George W. Mercier, died testate, and by his wil gave his whole estate, with nominal exceptions, to complainant's brother, who had taken possession of the same. That in 1863 her brother, much against her in 1863 her brother, much against her father's will, was engaged to be married to his present wife. That the father threatened to disinherit the son if he persisted in his intention, and would give him nothing during the father's life, or at his death, but would give all his property to complainant. That complainant favored the marriage and her brother proposed to her that if she would agree in the event that their father did give her his property to divide it with him, "he would brave his father's anger and consummate his intention towards the lady to whom he was then engaged, and that should their father afterwards relent towards his son and for any cause give him all his propand for any cause give him all his property, then he would do the same by complaint as he asked of her to do by him."
That her brother urged this proposition on her, as their father was of irate and hasty temper and there would be a large property for both. That complainant was induced by this and by the further fact that the betrothed of her brother would not consummate the marriage on account of said threat of her father un-less complainant would accede to the less complainant would accede to the proposition of her brother, to agree with him that they would equally divide between them the property of their father at his death, without regard to which one it might be given. That a short time after the understanding thus made, complainant's brother did marry the young lady to whom he was engaged. That the father afterwards made his will as above stated, and her brother refuses to carry out said agreement.

It was adm tted on the hearing lemurrer that the contract set forth in the oill was a verbal contract.

ACROSS THE PLAINS. Woman Walks From Kansas City to California to Find Her

[From the Truckee (Cal.) Republican.]

A woman passed through Truckee at five o'clock yesterday morning, who has walked the entire distance from Kansas City. She has followed the railroad City. She has followed the railroad track closely and has been some fifty days in making the trip. Nearly every conductor and brakemen on the railroad ret aryship of the Treasury. between Omaha and Truckee has ob served her as they passed her on their respective trains. She was very reticent in her conversation, but claimed to have a recreant husband somewhere in Cali-fornia whom she was seeking. Numerous offers were made her of a ride on the freight trains, all of which she per-emptorily refused. She declined trustemptorily retused. She declined trust-ing herself to the dangers and un-certainties of railway travel, and walked every step of the way. Her dress consisted of a pair of loose Turkish trowsers, made of canvas—similar in texture to that used by miners for hose in hydraulic mining. A woolen sack in hydraulic mining. A woolen sack striped shawl was wrapped around her shoulders. - In height and size she was rather below the medium. Her features rather below the medium. Her features were rather coarse, and, as may be supposed, severely bronzed by exposure to the sun and weather. The distance from Winnemucca to Wadsworth (150 miles) she made in four days, at the rate of thirty-four miles a day. She made no halt in passing through Truckee. Last Wednesday was the seventh anniversary of the Atlanta Constitution. * * Born in the troublous times of 1806, at the capital of the State, of the woes and tyranny that were being piled mountain high on the people, it has become one of the most popular papers in the South, by reason of its unfaltering devotion to the principles of Right, Truth and Justice, and to-day it occupies a proud position not only with the people, but with the Press, both daily and weekly. The CONSTITUTION BUILDING, on Broad street, was handsomely illuminated from counting room to roof, and attracted a large and enthusiastic crowd of spectators. At an early hour in the evening the guests of THE CONSTITUTION were assembled at the office, the building, from cellar to the roof, with its splendid appointments and conveniences was inspected. There is immense room, but yet the present quarters are found to be too small for the rapidly increasing wants of the paper. After the inspection the guests were escorted to PEASE'S RESTAURANT, where they were greeted with the sight of sonquet never surpassed in the State.

THE EXCURSION.

A special train left Atlanta Thursday morning at 6 o'clock with the representatives of the press and guests of the Constitution for Rome and thence down the Coosa on the splendid little steamer Magnolia. The run from Atlanta to Rome was made in splendid time, and the scenery and the crops along the line was the constant theme of remark and admiration. Arriving at Rome the party was transferred to the steamer and she steamed away with one of the jolliest cargoes of "old stags" that ever trod her decks. By order of the President of the Board of Education. B. MALLON, Secretary, Personal.

It gives us much pleasure to observe upon our streets Mrs. Ellen M. Clarke, of Atlanta, Ga., a lady who formerly resided in this State, and spent a good portion of her time in this city. She is now on a visit to her relatives in this place, and at this time the guest, we believe, of her uncle, our respected townsman, Isaac H. Smith, Eag. Mrs. Clarke is a lady of fine musical taste, and quite proficient in the practice of it. She is held in affectionate esteem by the people of Atlanta, and in musical circles is generally one of the leading spirits. She is looking remarkably well, and almost as youthful as in sowner years when, as Miss Ellen Meade, she was the charm of the social circle, facilities of the social circle, facilities and constant attendants.—Itersburg (Va.) COVINGTON, Ga., June 24th, 1874.

Editors Constitution:

To-day the exercises of the graduating class took place. The attendance has all along been good, but to day the chapel was full to overflowing, with a fine audience. The Masons were out in force. Before beginning the regular exercises, President Bradshaw called attention to the numerous paintings that adorned the walls, stating that they were the work of the students of the past year in the department of Painting. Mrs. Goodman, of your city, presides over this department, and the beautiful pictures on exhibition, prove that she is truly worthy of her wide-spread reputation as an artist. They reflect great credit upon the talent of the teacher and the aptness of the pupils, Miss Nonie Bramlitt (2d Honor) read the Salutatory. She did not follow the beaten path, but evinced considerable originality, together with good thought.

Miss Fannie Armstead read a production on "Musical Strains from Memory's Harp." Miss Julia Geiger read a very pretty allegory.

Miss Mattie Gibbs read a musical essay on COVINGTON, GA., June 24th, 1874.

Miss Cora O'Neal read a witty composition on "Social Pharmacy." She kindly proffered to the audience several prescriptions, which, if taken, would greatly improve the moral health of society.

Miss Cora Wilson exulted that with "One More Struggle" she would be free from the vexations of college life. The brilliancy of her thoughts is almost equal to that of her eyes.

Miss Corinne Smith, first honor, addressed the Masons in behalf of the college. She culogized them for their noble work infounding the Southern Masonic Female College, and urged them not to cease until it stood without a peer in the land.

This was happily responded to by Rev. Dr. Butler, of the Masons, who pledged the featurality to its support. Dr. Butler, of the Masons, who pledged the fraternity to its support.

After a rest for a few minutes President After a rest for a few minutes President Bradshaw introduced Colonel E. Y. Clarke, of The Atlanta Constitution, to make the annual address. The Colonel stated that his address would have at least one merit—that of novelty. It would also be appropriate to the occasion. He announced as his theme

Many mistaken notions exist with reference to editors and newspapers. Great editors are rare. It requires a high order of talent to succeed in the journalistic profession. He traced the history of the newspaper from its origin, in the seventeenth century, down to the present time, when there are thousands in every enlightened nation. At first its only object was the dissemmination of news. It has now become the grandest agent of civilization the world has ever known. Its tremendous influence is owing to the universality of its reach, and to the fact that it assails the affections and intellect from every point of the compass. It brings all resources to bear. Where the press is not free there is no true liberty. The press is the greatest conservator of morals. It is not inferior to the pulpit itself. It preaches daily, and reaches the multitude, not the few. It does more to educate and enlighten than all the colleges or all Many mistaken notions exist with refer-tude, not the few. It does more to educate and enlighten than all the colleges or all other agencies of civilization. Then it is amazing that any man can refuse his aid to the great instrumentality for improving his ra. There are thousands who neglect to sulp. It. Such men, said a Georgia editor, may be loyal, but the angels will refuse to associate with him. And if the angels of Heaven reject their company should not the angels of earth do likewise? should not the angels of earth do likewise? He then applied his discourse to the young ladies, and urged them to do all in their power to ald in perfecting the mission and power of journalism. The South is now terribly in need of a pure, able, independent press, for many reasons. It will restore her to her former glory. He urged the young ladies never to marry a man who did not take a newspaper. They should always have the newspaper in their homes, and the pure in preference to all others. They can do much to purify the press and make it more usepreference to all others. They can do much to purify the press and make it more useful. He concluded his address with a beautiful tribute to newspapers, those white-winged messengers of knowledge and advancement, scattering blessings over the world. The speech was listened to with marked attention, and at the conclusion, the orator was pelted with several huge boquets. The audience was then dismissed with the benediction. Thus

In his pleasant way Mr. Tuggle proceeded to discuss this subject under three heads, commencing with Love, then Courtship, and last Marriage. He is a pleasant speaker, and one who can amuse and instruct at the same time, thus preventing his audience from becoming tired. He has an originality of his own and which is inimitable.

Last night the grand concert by Professor Schirmacher, the affair of our commencements, came off. From back to fronta mass of faces awaited with some impatience the grand burst of sweet sounds that they knew would announce the opening. All know that whenever Schirmacher and the young ladies of his music class announce that they will give a concert that there will be music that will "Exalt each joy, allay each grief, Expel disease, soften every pain. Subdue the rage of passion and of plague."

I cannot, were I able, convoy an idea of this concert. It is beyond the power of words. I can only give you the programme, and allow those of your readers who are connoiseurs to judge from it, while I will add that every part was splendid.

I cannot close this poor attempt at a discription of this concert without a special mention of this concert without a special mention of Misses Alice Cox, Jennie Kener, Mary Lou Holle, Jennie Morgan and Eula Ferrell. The violin solo of Miss Alice and the piano solos of Misses Jennie and Mary Lou—gracefully artistic in their performances—"they held the ear, the heart, the very soul of all entranced."

By request Miss Eula sang "Bird of the Mountain." It was beautifully rendered. Miss Jennie sang "Non E Ver." and at the close was loudly applauded by the audience, showing the high appreciation of her musical talents.

The solo, by Miss Kener, was one of those artistic pieces of music requiring the highest cultivation in its performance.

Its Use and Advantages-A Nev Lecture Upon an Old Subject.

[From the Cleveland Leader.] There is this about the Chicago businessmen which keeps them forever on the winjing side. They do not wait for customers to find them. They advertise for trade, they go out and seek it. A merchant picking up a Chicago paper in Omaha, or St. Paul can tell at a glance what sort of wholesale trade is being done in Chicago, and who is doing it. Every kind of business, from the news stands and tobacco stores to the heaviest wholesale trade, is constantly and conspicuously advertised. The newspapers of other cities carry no such evidence of home prosperity to the country round. The passing stranger might read the journals of Cincinnat, Cleveland, Pittsburg or Buffalo for days without learning that these cities have any wholesale trade at all. Indeed, we believe there is an agreement among the wholesale There is this about the Chicago busines to know Dr. J. S. Vice-President W. J. Garrett presided on change yesterday. Vice President Stephens atroduced to the Board, Dr. Mathews Presiintroduced to the Board, Dr. Mathews President of the Elberton & Toccoa R. R.

Dr D. A. Mathews stated that the route had been surveyed; in bridge or trestle on the line; length fifteen miles, cost of moving dirt, etc., $540 per mile, engineers on upper part of the line making estimates; heaviest part will not sost over $1,000 per mile; total cost building and equipping the road estimated at $255,000; iron rail will be placed on stringers; plenty of timber on each side of the line. Elbert county raises about 7,500 bales annually; only a small portion of cotton goes down the river to Augusta; Atlanta will get at least 2,000 bales. Line runs through Hart, Franklin and part of Madison. It drains the valleys of the Broad and Savannah rivers. Hart county raised 6,000 bales of cotton last year; so did Franklin; Madison 4,000 bales. About 30,000 bales will be shipped over the road; $75,000 has been subscribed to the road.

If Atlanta merchants would subscribs $25,000, we feel assured they can get 18,000 bales of cotton.

On motion, the thanks of the Board were tendered Dr. Matthews for his address.

BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK, BOSTON, AND ALL THE NEW ENGLAND MANUFACTURING CITIES,

Three Times a Week From New York. TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS AND SATURDAYS. Elegant State-Room Accommodations.

THIS is an Incorporated Institution, with ample capital, and a thoroughly organized Surgical and Medical Staff, for the treatment of Congenital and Acquired Deformities of the human body, and diseases or conditions requiring surgical operations, or mechanical appliances for their relief or cure; also, for the treatment of diseases peculiar to females, for paralysis and other affictions, as shown in Illustrated Circulars. The Southern Branch is now in successful operation in Atlants.

The building occupied is of brick, new large, well ventifiated, well furnished, and supplied with machinery power, gymnastic arrangements, Electrical Instruments, vaccuum treatment, movement apparatus, and many other appliances from the original Institute in Indianapolis, Ind. An ample corps of skilled assistants, and apparatus makers, has been brought here, and the whole is under the charge of Surgeons of well known ability and skill. Three hundred patients are already under the treatment of the Southern Branch, and the results are highly gratifying and satisfactory. Call and examine the methods of treatment, and the facilities for carrying forward the work. Address:

No book has ever been published of such universal interest to the American people. It appeals to no particular class alone, but to all classes; to men and women of all professions, creeds, occupations and political opinions—to Farmers, Lawyers, Business Men, Mechanica, Physicians, Politicians, Teachers, Students, Manufacturers, Salesmen, men of learning, and men who can only read, to old and young. All want it as a book of constant reference, and to preserve for the fulleren and children's children as the only complete and reliable work showing the gigantic results of The First One Handred Years of the Greatest Republic the World Ever Saw. It is not a luxury but a necessity to every well-informed American citizen. Agents make $100 to $300 per month. Send for circular. ZEIGLER & McCURDY, Philadelphia, Pa. cent.
